Boat Racers Awarded for their Determination

By Jean Perry

The contestants in the Rochester Annual Memorial Day Boat Race were awarded for their participation later in the evening on May 27 during an awards ceremony at Rochester Memorial School.

The very first race was 80 years ago, and 93 year-old Louise Watling has attended all but two of them, cheering on friends and family members, but never competing in the race.

"I like to watch the kids," said Watling, who sat in the audience as her son, Vice President of Alewives Anonymous, assisted during the awards ceremony. "It's a good hobby for them. It keeps them busy."

She did, on occasion, take advantage of the cleared-out river route the day following the race in a canoe with her husband, she said, pointing out that she will be 94 this July.

This year there was a total of 65 teams who signed up for the race, and all but one crossed the finish line.

"There's always one – or more," said Boat Race Chairman Arthur Benner. This year, participants from all over the Southcoast, and some from Millbury, Plymouth, and Rhode Island, came out to race their homemade boats in the annual event that is one of Rochester's best-known traditions.

Benner tossed out a few statistics to the crowd, saying that this year's tallest competitor was six feet, eight inches. The shortest was 34 inches. The youngest was three years old, and the oldest, 63. The lightest contestant was 33 pounds, and the heaviest, 265 pounds.

Jonathan Hartley of West Wareham, 58, was deemed the 2014 "Old Man of the River," and he placed 54th overall.

The Junior Boys Division winners, Jack Barrows and Matthew Brogioli, took first place this year for their third year in a row and received a plaque recognizing their accomplishment. This was the first time in

There was only a one-second difference between a near-tie, which Benner said was the closest the race has seen in a while.

After the awards were given out, there was a special raffle for participants in attendance in recognition of the 80th year since the tradition began.

"Now all the fish and geese and frogs can settle back into the river," said Benner. "We'll try to keep it going and see what we'll do on the hundredth."

Mattapoisett Remembers, Honors Veterans

By Jean Perry

We will likely never know the names of all the fallen soldiers who have died in the service of our country, as Representative William Strauss acknowledged, "But we know the gift that was given to us."

A crowd of people filled the lawn of the Mattapoisett Free Library on Memorial Day, spilling onto the street. Some held flags, others handwritten signs thanking veterans for their service.

Veteran's Agent Bill Denham cited the Southcoast's most recent loss of Lance Corporal Matthew Rodriguez, who lost his life conducting combat operations in Afghanistan.

"Lisa Rodriguez got the call no mother wants to get," said Denham. The residents of Mattapoisett who came out to line the sides of Route 6 the day Rodriguez was brought home were special to Denham, and he thanked the community for showing their respect and support.

"People really pitch in when stuff like that happens," said Denham.

A little rain began to fall while Old Rochester Regional Junior High School student Elise Parker read the Gettysburg Address, which although bothersome, was somehow an appropriate backdrop to one of the most poignant speeches in the history of the United States.

"That from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion – that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain..."

Special guest speaker Navy Reserve Commander Paul Brawley took a light-hearted approach to the rain as it increased when he took to the podium.

"I hope you don't mind, but I'm a sailor," said Brawley. "I brought a little water with me."

He said, quoting General Douglas MacArthur, "The soldier, above all people, prays for peace."

But even when the soldiers take off their uniforms, they continue to serve the United States by using their skills, said Brawley. He proudly told the crowd that Massachusetts leads the nation in providing benefits for veterans. He said the Commonwealth, per capita, spends more on its veterans than any other state.

A taps ceremony and wreath laying at the War Memorials at the library followed, and then the parade marched over to the Town Wharf to honor veterans who lost their lives at sea.

Local Runner Shows Big Heart

By Renae Reints

"I'm running fast, and I'm running a lot right now," said Sarabeth Morrell, an English teacher at Old Rochester Regional High School. Morrell is currently running 30 to 40 miles per week, training for the Marine Corps Marathon in Washington, D.C. on October 26, 2014.

"My personal goal is to run this fast enough to be able to qualify for Boston next spring," said Morrell. Thus she's training for speed. Morrell, who normally runs at nine to ten minutes per mile, hopes to bump her average down to seven to eight minutes per mile.

A runner for most of her life, Morrell is no stranger to the strenuous 26.2 miles of a marathon. Before she had kids, Morrell ran several marathons. It's only now that her children are older that she again has the time to train – but this time, she's running for a cause.

"I used to do it for myself and for my own athletic challenges," explained Morrell, "but now it seemed like as I'm older ... I wanted to combine my love of running with helping out an organization."

That's when Morrell decided to join the Homes for Our Troops team in the Marine Corps Marathon. This team raises money for Homes for Our Troops (HFOT), an organization that builds homes for post 9/11 veterans who have lost limbs in war.

"This organization is important because of the state of the world in which we live," said Morrell sincerely, "We have veterans coming home with injuries who can no longer take care of their families."

With her own husband being a Marine Corps veteran, Morrell feels blessed that her family hasn't had to face the struggles of seriously injured veterans' families. She felt she could help those who weren't so lucky by supporting HFOT in the Marine Corps Marathon.

The HFOT team currently has 25 to 30 members, but they hope to reach 50 members. Eventually, the runners will begin training as a team. For now, they're focused on individual training and fundraising.

The Marine Corps Marathon requires that runners involved with a charity bib raise at least $500 before registering. The HFOT team is a little more ambitious: they've set a goal of $100,000 for their team. Through the generosity and the determination of the runners and other donors, the team has raised nearly $18,000 so far. Each day, they make more progress.

This summer, the HFOT team will be running local fundraisers to reach their goal. In the meantime, they rely on the altruism of the community. For more

Rochester Girl Collects Shoes for Orphans

By Jean Perry

One day, 10 year-old Emma Levasseur was watching television in her home in Rochester when she saw something that made her stop and think.

It was a commercial that came on about a school that was holding a shoe drive to collect new shoes and socks for millions of orphans around the globe that do not have any shoes.

Emma felt inspired to do something about it, so she gathered her paper, markers, and glue – determined to make a difference.

"I decided that I wanted to do [a shoe drive], so I made a poster the next morning," said Emma. She put together information she gathered about the project and created a poster proposal of sorts to show to her mother, asking if she could contribute to the cause.

"Oh. Wow," said Emma's mom, Wendy Levasseur, when Emma approached her with the poster. Not sure how she would go about organizing a shoe drive, Wendy told Emma, "Why don't we bring it to Ms. Griffin and see what she says?"

Ms. Griffin, Emma's fourth-grade teacher at Rochester Memorial School, took one look at Emma's brightly-colored poster and saw Emma's determination.

"She came with a plan," said Griffin. "She had an idea of what she wanted to do."

RMS Principal Derek Medeiros gave the go ahead to allow Emma to place collection bins at school so her classmates and teachers could donate not only shoes but socks, too. On the morning of May 28, Emma announced the upcoming shoe drive to her peers, beginning by asking them if they knew how many orphans out there went without any shoes. Emma's answer: 145 million.

Emma's classmates responded to her shoe drive idea with enthusiasm, eager to rush out and buy new shoes and socks for an orphan in need.

In addition to the donation, Emma has asked that everyone who makes a shoe donation include a short note inside one of the shoes for the child who will receive them, so that they will know that they are thought of and cared about.

Emma's gesture of goodwill stretched beyond just the scope of her school shoe drive. Wendy said Emma had an approaching birthday party back in late March, and asked her mother if it would be all right to ask her party guests to bring her pairs of shoes and socks for the shoe drive – in lieu of birthday presents.

Emma's brother Aiden, a first-grader at RMS, has been an enthusiastic helper as well, helping to decorate large plastic donation bins for people to place the donated shoes and socks.

"As soon as he saw her do this," said Wendy, "he said to me, 'I want to do a book drive.'" Wendy added that young Aidan is always "trying to give his money away," asking if he can send his savings to help cure cancer, among other things.

"I think it's great," said Mike Levasseur, Emma's and Aidan's father. "As a parent, you want your kids to be selfless at times, and to see this is just great."

The organization that will be accepting the donated shoes and socks is Buckner Shoes for Orphan Souls. It has already collected 2.75 million pairs of shoes and sent them to 76 different countries around the world. Buckner's 2014 goal is to deliver its three-millionth pair of shoes by January 1, 2015.

As part of the process of organizing with Buckner,

Emma had to submit her own personal goal and naturally, Emma aimed high.

Perhaps a little too high, in Wendy's opinion, suggesting they bring it down from 250 to an attainable 50 or so pairs of shoes.

Emma humbly asks the community to contribute to the shoe drive and make a donation of a pair of shoes or socks with a note of encouragement to the orphan recipient. A drop box is available at the school in the main entrance vestibule during school hours.

The shoe drive kicks off on June 2 and will continue until the last day of school on June 18.

Buckner says the sizes most in need are sizes Youth 1-Adult 9.

Emma is also collecting monetary donations to help cover the cost of shipping the shoes to the humanitarian aid center in Dallas, Texas. It is her responsibility to send the shoes and postage can get pricey, depending on how many shoes she collects.

"This is a very generous community," said Griffin. "If there's ever a place to do it, it's here in Rochester."

And how will the orphans feel when they receive their new shoes?

"They'll be happy," said Emma. And, undoubtedly, so will Emma.

The Death of Industrial Arts

This Mattapoisett Life

By Marilou Newell

In the early days of public education, a course of study known as "industrial arts" was common in high schools across the country. These vocational classes included everything from mechanical drawing to automotive repairs, from furniture making to electrical wiring. The classes offered practical skill training primarily to two types of students: The male student who demonstrated a real interest and aptitude in an industrial art, or the male student assessed as a low achiever needing, and hopefully benefiting from, vocational training.

For many years, freshmen students from the general school population were required to take a few semesters in one or more 'shop' classes. These students most likely would not transfer to an industrial arts curriculum, but they would have a chance to explore a 'trade.'

Most of the kids I knew in high school enjoyed the time spent in shop class. And what a novelty when during the '60s, girls could take wood shop and boys could take home economics. Equal opportunity at the shop class level had arrived. It was good for us, just as music and art were, but don't get me started on those maligned enrichment classes.

As public education became more intent on measuring and testing students and as Federal and State guidelines promoted and required more reporting on the academic achievement (think MCAS and PARCC) via 'data,' the financial burden of offering classes that were deemed less important could no longer be supported. A quick check on the evolution of achievement testing philosophies brought me to the website http://www.cgcs.org/cms/lib/DC00001581/Centricity/Domain/87/Charting\_Success.pdf, where I found the following statement: "In recent years, interest has spiked in data-driven decision making in education – that is, using various types of data, particularly quantitative assessment data, to inform a range of decisions in schools and classrooms (Marsh, Pane, & Hamilton, 2006). This is a natural result of technological changes, the advent of test-based accountability systems under No Child Left Behind, and the increased availability of quantitative data due to accountability reforms. The increased emphasis on using data is based on the belief that assessment data and other student performance data can be important levers for improved teaching and learning. Many schools, districts, and states have invested resources in tools designed to provide teachers, principals, and other key stakeholders with ready access to (and analysis of) information regarding student performance throughout the school year..."

However, the field has yet to produce reliable evidence regarding the relationship between data use and teacher or school effectiveness at raising student achievement..." Please don't send me hate mail.

My point is that as public schools have been pushed to operate more like corporations, some educational considerations have gone out the window like industrial arts. It seems to me that in general public education, it's a numbers game and as long as a certain percentage of students are at or above the line, the administrations of these schools have achieved their goal. I am not faulting the teachers or the administrators. I am saying that with tightening budgets and increasing demands to produce educational results that may pull the U.S.A. out of the academic doldrums, there isn't room for Industrial Arts. More's the pity.

Thankfully, vocational education has come out of the shadows. Institutions of 'trade' based education are no longer places where students are sent if they fail at 'regular' public school. Today, vocational schools provide a high level of technical training in a wide variety of subject matter from commercial food preparation to cosmetology, nursing, machine repair, electrical, plumbing, automotive, to facility management (to name a few) for both boys and girls. And unlike years gone by, kids graduating from vocational technical high schools may also pursue a four-year degree. Perfect!

Animal Advice

Jay Gould, DVM

Inside vs. Outside

I have a new kitten and I am trying to decide whether to let him out or to keep him as an inside cat. Any thoughts?

Cats that go outside are exposed to a multitude of dangers. These include cat fights, cars, coyotes, ticks and fleas, heartworms and infectious diseases such as feline leukemia virus and feline AIDS.

What can I do to protect my cat if I decide to let him out?

Cars, coyotes, Feline AIDS and other cats are best avoided by leaving your cat inside. Ticks and fleas can be controlled by applying Frontline Top Spot once a month. Heartworms can be prevented by using Heartgard monthly and the risk of Feline Leukemia virus can be minimized through vaccination.

508-758-4753 36 Years in the Trade

We are fortunate to have great vocational technical schools within driving distance. But are we dissuading our kids from pursuing a career in the trades? Are we still telling our children not to get their hands dirty unless they absolutely have to? Presently, we can't offer students in public schools a tiny taste of a 'trade' as once was the case. We've segregated the themes of learning.

Somewhere along the way as modern societies evolved, we lost the value we placed on people who could 'do' things and replaced it with people who could 'think' things. We've lost sight that the people that 'do' things also have to 'think' things. So we told our children to use their brains, not their brawns, and become MBA's. Today MBA's are a dime a dozen, struggling to find employment while a good carpenter is a rare find.

When I worked in the electrical industry, there was a full-court press on to enroll young people in apprentice programs across the nation. I was fortunate to meet many students studying the electrical trade and was encouraged that they saw a future in becoming master electricians or journeymen, or electrical engineers. These men and women were some of the most focused, intelligent, and driven people I've ever met.

During the mid-1990s, the IBEW (unionized) and IEC (non-union independent) tracked electrical apprentice enrollments. They were shocked at the steep decline in numbers. Projections were showing that in as little as ten years, the number of qualified electricians would be less than half of the pre-recession number. That might not mean anything to you unless you need an electrician, and when you do find one he or she is most likely not a spring chicken.

People in the trades that are worth their salt are exceptional for the variety of things they must know. They must be customer service and business oriented, while possessing the patience and understanding of a social worker or sometimes a marriage counselor. They have to be visionaries with a high degree of technical competency and academic training. In other words, they have to have a business suit and work shirt set of skills.

I'm not saying we should encourage our children to take vocational education over general public school curriculums. What I am saying is that it is a crying shame that students in general public education settings no longer get a chance to try areas of study that might one day prove to be their yellow brick road to success.

When all is said and done, I think if teachers could candidly speak their minds they would agree that less testing and more teaching would help not hurt our children. I think teachers might like to see some of the money invested in testing materials being plowed into teaching materials. I think teachers should have a seat at the decision-making table when it comes to allocating available funds. My guess is that if teachers were allowed to make more decisions – instead of government telling school boards "test, test, test" – our students would, in fact, be better educated overall. As taxpayers, we should be screaming "stop the madness!"

Critical to the cleanliness of local waterways are pump out services for the many boats moored in the harbor and for visiting boaters. Kaiser began the conversation by stating that his marina is licensed by the state to provide sanitation services. He said that they average about 25 clean-outs per day on a will call basis, seven days a week during the boating season. Simmons and Kaiser have also discussed having sign-up available at her headquarters, and she said that signage could be put up that would provide boaters with contact information for the marina pump-out service.

Town Administrator Mike Gagne expressed his concern that Leisure Shores Marina did not have or offer any type of pump-out service to its customers. Kaiser said that in previous years he had provided some collection services for the marina, but it failed to meet safety standards after a while causing him to pull out. He said it would be tricky to maneuver his pump-out boat between boats in slips at Leisure Shores, but something could possibly be worked out. Gagne said that although the troubled marina was working with the Zoning Board and others to bring the operation up to standards and within acceptable permitted business, things weren't moving along as quickly as he would like and certainly not on this issue of sanitation services.

Selectman Paul Silva said, "Some of those boats are summer cottages." Kaiser concurred, saying that a boat was equal to a residence in terms of sanitation needs. "They don't leave there ... so where does the waste go?" questioned Silva rhetorically. It was decided that Simmons and Kaiser will work together to try and schedule pump-out services for the customers of Leisure Shores.

Kaiser went on to say that providing pump-out services to outlying coves and beach community areas such as Aucoot Cove and Point Connett is difficult. He intimated that his contract only goes so far in terms of his business being compensated for providing this service, and going into those outlying areas rather stretches the budget a bit too far. He said that he would continue to try and provide services in those areas; however, asking boaters to meet him half way would be helpful. The board will work to have services listed on the Town's web site.

Boat Yard is a free launch service. He said that it is better for his business to work from the Barstow pier, but that people really want to be picked up and dropped off at the town wharf area. Calling the launch service a "lost leader" for his business, he did say that he saw a benefit from it by an increase in other cash services they offered. "We gain more service work, so there is an advantage." He also said that he wanted to help the town.

Discussion of the launch service centered around how best to designate a space at the town wharf for the launch that would not inconvenience other boaters. Simmons will work with Kaiser and her staff to coordinate efforts so that a space can be used for the water taxi service.

Gagne said that he has been in conversations regarding a wharfinger position. A wharfinger is a manager who oversees the activities on wharves to ensure the smooth use of and operation of the wharf. He said that maybe this person could oversee the launch schedule and communication necessary with boaters to ensure coordination of pick-up and drop-off services. Again, Simmons will work with Kaiser to come up with a plan.

Gagne also reported to the board that audio problems for video-taped meetings and programs have been resolved thanks to the assistance of Comcast. He also said that ORCTV will be returning to ORRHS and acknowledged that the school was home to a superior media center.

Regarding the street improvement project for the village area, Gagne said that meetings will begin soon with impacted residents to discuss with them exactly what can and can not be done. He said that cost estimates for engineering and construction will be completed in a few months.

He said that handicap ramp work on the Ned's Point restroom will begin soon and will take two weeks to complete. Portable sanitation services will be available during the construction phase. He also said that restroom work on the Beach House will be completed by June 21. Finally, he said that electrical bids are now in for work needed at the town piers.

members, along with the Selectmen, honored Jeff Chase for his 25 years of service on the ZBA. Also honored was Raymond Harrington for 15 years of service on the Historical Commission.

Mary Soares came before the board to discuss her plan to offer Tai Chi classes at Ned's Point on Monday mornings at 10:00 am. Because she will be asking for a free-will offering, Gagne will get together with her to confirm that the town's insurance riders will cover the classes.

Geoff Smith of The Sightings LLC asked the selectmen about the possibility of a March 29 road race for a yet to be named charity. Smith also needs to drum up sponsors. Gagne told Smith he needed to review the race route and security and safety protocols with Chief Mary Lyons. Once he has met and received approval of the police chief, he was told to return to the board to firm up other aspects of the race. The Sightings LLC is a US Track and Field sanctioned racing entity.

The Hollywood Scoop, a new business coming to town, received approval for an entertainment license and the Summer Wharf Dances were also approved.

Tabled until the next meeting was a meeting with the new Town Clerk, Catherine Heuberger, and Nick Nicholson for the 2013 DEP Public Water System Awards.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen is scheduled for June 10 at 7:00 pm.

Looming Shawmut Escrow Deficit Concerns Board

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

The Rochester Planning Board recently issued Shawmut Associates an invoice for an engineering site visit – and Shawmut, said Chairman Arnold Johnson, was not happy about it.

The remaining balance of the company's escrow account now stands at $791, not enough to cover the invoice for Field Engineering, and now the board says it needs an additional $1,960 or so to cover the entire balance. The original amount of the escrow was $4,000.

Shawmut has requested the accounting of the hours Engineer Ken Motta of Field Engineering spent at the site inspecting the project, a site visit that was the result of some unanticipated "unsuitable soil" encountered by Shawmut during the excavation process.

"Until we get money, we can't have Field Engineering going out there," said Johnson. Johnson wondered if the board should pay the invoice out of its own budget and then later recover the money from Shawmut, and also request further funds be placed in the escrow account for future site visits.

The project cannot be approved until the board has its final site visit after Field Engineering has its own site visit to provide the board the necessary data to make the judgment.

The $4,000 estimate for the escrow account was based on the initial plans presented to the board, said Johnson, and Shawmut later altered its plans. The plan change required another inspection, in addition to the unexpected unsuitable soil, which added yet another inspection.

"We've exhausted that budget," said Johnson. "In fact, we're significantly over."

Board member Gary Florindo pointed out that the Shawmut project to construct a trash and recycling facility off Cranberry Highway is "an extravagant piece of construction that's going on at that property," a scope that should merit an increase in escrow.

"It's not our problem they ran into obstacles," said Florindo. "It's their problem. It's our problem to make sure it's done right."

Florindo said he thinks the right hand should know what the left hand is doing.

"A lack of communication keeps everyone in the dark," said Florindo.

The board decided to make a few changes to the draft letter, run it by town counsel, and then send it to Shawmut Associates.

Also during the meeting, the board met with Jay Myrto of the Little Quittacas solar project to discuss concerns about drainage basins and some of the vegetation on the property that "is not looking good," according to Johnson.

There have been some complaints from abutters about several arborvitae that have turned brown and appear to be dead. Johnson also brought up that one of the basins has been draining slowly relative to the other three. In addition, some of the hydroseed grass that was put down has not yielded grass.

The board sent Field Engineering to inspect the property and generate a report on the findings. Johnson asked Myrto if he received a copy of the report, to which he replied that he had not.

"But I got the invoice," said Myrto.

Myrto apologized, saying he acknowledges there was a break down in communication and vowed to stay in closer contact with the board.

"To an extent, it was my fault," said Myrto. He was aware of the concerns the board had, he continued. "But you didn't know that I knew that."

Myrto said he would rather keep better communication with the board than pay for a site visit.

The solar facility is generating power and has been since it passed a "witness test" back on December 18, 2013. The facility went online shortly after that.

In other news, Town Administrator Richard LaCamera got the approval he needed from the board to go ahead and purchase "a really neat software system," as he put it.

Come June, the Town will be utilizing MapGeo, an enhanced web-mapping interface software that allows access to local digital geographic and property data that will standardize the mapping system used by the Conservation Commission, the Planning Department, the Assessor's Office, and the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The total cost of $11,500 was extra money left over in the planning budget due to a delay in hiring the new town planner in January.

Before adjourning, the board briefly discussed some amendments to the Subdivision Rules and Regulations.

There will be a public hearing on the amendments at the next meeting of the Planning Board, which is scheduled for June 10 at 7:00 pm at Town Hall.

Students Experience Health Science Careers

ORR Update

By Renae Reints

Junior students in the Human Anatomy and Physiology class of Old Rochester Regional High School went to Buttonwood Park Zoo last Tuesday for a job shadow field trip. The students met the zoo's education coordinator, veterinarian technician, and zookeeper, and learned a little about each occupation.

"They talked to us about their education, how they got to where they were at," said Mary Cabral, an anatomy teacher at ORR, "What was interesting, I thought, was that it was not a direct route. They majored in one area, worked in some other field, and then finally ended up where they were at this point."

Each of the zoo's employees who participated in the job shadow did plenty of volunteer work after graduating from college. This allowed them to gain more experience before securing a job at Buttonwood Park Zoo.

"They were advising our students to internship, to volunteer, to kind of check things out before you make a commitment to a full-time career – make sure you really like it," explained Cabral.

Cabral felt like the job shadow was a valuable experience for all the students, even those not planning on going into an animal science career. "Even if it was one piece of information, like volunteering or doing internships, something that might not be specific to that particular job," said Cabral. "I think that everyone took away something."

These job shadows are not a new type of field trip for the students of ORR. Teachers affiliated with the Junior Achievement program of New Bedford have been making these types of connections with businesses in the area for years.

Cabral has been connected with Junior Achievement for about eight years. While this was only the second time she's taken her anatomy class to the Buttonwood Park Zoo, Cabral has done many job shadows with past classes. She's taken her anatomy class to a physical therapy clinic in Dartmouth and the Eye Health Vision Center, also in Dartmouth.

The Forensic Science class has visited the Bristol County House of Correction, as well as the Third District Court of New Bedford, while technology classes often visit Titleist, a company in New Bedford that makes golfing materials. Each of these job shadow trips brings a new understanding to the students involved.

"It's a great experience," said Cabral, "I think it's important for [the students] to be able to take what they've learned in the classroom and see how it's applied in the real world, how people actually use these skills in their careers."

With this ideal in mind, Cabral is planning a Health Science Career Fair along with the school's nurse, Kim Corazzini. Students from Cabral's anatomy class will be presenting at the career fair. They've been doing research on health science careers of their own interests.

The school has also invited at least ten professionals to make presentations about their careers. Presenters will include a holistic emergency room doctor, a nurse practitioner, an EMT, a nutritionist, a nurse instructor from UMass Dartmouth, a social worker, and a representative from the South Coast Hospital group who will speak on health careers that are a bit outside the box.

Along with these professionals, there will be four college admission officers present at the career fair. UMass Dartmouth, Bristol Community College, Fisher College, and the Spa Tech Institute will all be represented.

Both ORRHS students and members of the community are invited to enjoy the Health Science Career Fair. The event will be held in ORR's cafeteria on May 29 from 12:45 to 4:00 pm.

In other news, the senior class had their last day of high school last Tuesday. They celebrated with the annual senior picnic. After attending classes for the first two blocks of the day, the senior class spent the remainder

"It was fun being able to hang out with all our friends for the last time in one place," said Brianna Perry, a senior, "It hasn't quite hit me yet that I'm not going back to ORR."

While most seniors look forward to new adventures in the coming years, some seemed a little sad as they signed the yearbooks of friends they've known since elementary school. ## Tabor Graduates the Class of 2014

Tabor Academy News

By Julia O'Rourke

On Tuesday, May 27, the class of 2014 graduated from Tabor Academy at Tabor's 136th Commencement Ceremony. One hundred thirty seven students received their diplomas after a splendid farewell at the waterfront.

This ceremony was the 48th and final of Bruce Cobbold's career. Beginning his position as a Tabor faculty member in 1966, Cobbold has been Tabor's longest-serving faculty member while filling many roles in the Tabor community. Cobbold served as an administrator, and he concludes his career as the Senior Master. He has been a scholarly classics teacher while directing plays and coaching crew and cross country teams. Cobbold was also the presider of Tabor's annual Lessons and Carols Ceremony. His mark on the Tabor community has been unparalleled. Due to his extraordinary contribution to the Academy, Cobbold received the honor of speaking at the Baccalaureate ceremony, which took place the night before graduation.

At Commencement, Tabor was fortunate to have Dave McGillivray, director of the Boston Marathon, as the keynote speaker. McGillivray is an athlete, scholar, and philanthropist.

As an athlete, McGillivray is extremely accomplished. He has competed in the Ironman Triathlon World Championship eight-times, earning 14th place overall in his best performance. He has run over 130 marathons and participated in a 24-hour run, a 24-hour bike, and a 24-hour swim. Now, as the director of the B.A.A. Boston Marathon, he runs the race at night when his work is completed. Additionally, McGillivray has run his age in miles on his birthday each year since he was a child.

McGillivray was the valedictorian of both Medford High School and Merrimack College, and after his academic success he went on to become a major entrepreneur and philanthropist. He founded the Dave McGillivray Sports Enterprises, Inc. Through DMSE, he assists or directs athletic events internationally and nationally. His work earned him both the Competitor Magazine Lifetime Achievement Award and the Race Director of the Year by Road Race Management and Running Times in 2000.

McGillivray's many successes have benefitted others, and he has helped raise millions of dollars for charity. One of his most impressive accomplishments was completing a 3,452 mile run across America over a period of 80 days for the Jimmy Fund in 1978. McGillivray is well known locally for his position as director of the Boston Marathon for the past 26 years.

Here is a look at the eighth week of scheduled games for ORR spring athletics.

Baseball: The Bulldogs had an eventful week this week, playing their four final regular season games. The boys began with a key 6-3 victory over Bourne, which automatically guaranteed them at least a share of the SCC Championship. ORR had a chance to win the title outright, but was unfortunately thwarted by league rival Apponequet, who defeated them 6-1, forcing a tie for the conference crown. The boys would suffer another loss to Bishop Stang, 10-2, before winning their final regular season game against Coyle Cassidy, 8-1. The boys continue their season in the state tournament, where they are currently awaiting their seed.

Softball: The Lady Bulldogs had a tough start to their final week of games, suffering a tough loss to Bourne, 8-7. However, the girls rebounded nicely to finish out their season with two impressive wins, one over Seekonk, 11-2, and the other over Bishop Stang, 5-2. The latter win was especially impressive, as it is the first time the Lady Bulldogs have ever defeated Bishop Stang in softball. Credit must be given to Kaleigh Goulart, who pitched well for the entirety of the game, as well as Michaela Guard, who batted in two runs. Though the girls had a tough season and will not advance to the state tournament, they put together a respectable record and set the groundwork for future success, thanks to graduating seniors Ali Holmen, Arisa Underhill, and Sam Allaire.

Boys' Track: This week, the Bulldogs competed in the annual SCC meet, where they placed second to Dighton-Rehoboth. Kevin Saccone won the 400-hurdles, 110-hurdles, and triple jump en route to being named the overall athlete of the meet. The Bulldogs also got key points from Mike Wyman, who ran a state-best two mile in 9:11. Colin Knapton and Jack Smith were both double winners on the day, with Knapton claiming the javelin and 100-meter and Smith winning the 200-meter and long jump. The meet also marked the final conference meet for the Bulldogs, who now look to the state divisional meet this Saturday.

Girls' Track: Like the boys, the girls competed in the SCC meet this week. Unlike the boys, however, the girls easily won the meet, garnering 143 points thanks to some fantastic performances. Paige Santos earned the overall female athlete of the meet, winning both hurdle races as well as the high jump. Morgan DaSilva was also a triple winner on the day, winning the long jump and 400-meter as well as running a leg on the winning 4x400-meter relay. Nina Bourgeois and Riley Shaughnessy placed second and third in the mile, respectively, providing some key points in the distance events. The win marks the Lady Bulldogs' fifth consecutive SCC title. The girls hope to continue their excellent season at the state level, as they are competing in the Division 4 State meet this Saturday.

Boys' Tennis: The boys' tennis team wrapped up their season this week with two wins over Dighton-Rehoboth and Bishop Stang. Thanks to wins from Alex Bilodeau (first singles), Alden Truesdale (second singles), and Maxx Wolski and Doug Blaise (second doubles), the Bulldogs earned their thirteenth conference victory of the season, giving them the outright conference championship. The boys finished off their regular season with a 4-1 victory over Bishop Stang, winning all but one match in third singles. The Bulldogs are now awaiting their seeding for the state tournament.

Girls' Tennis: The Lady Bulldogs had a tough finish to their season, suffering a 5-0 sweep to Bishop Stang. Second singles' player Haley Dickerson was the only Lady Bulldog to win a set in the entire match, as the Spartans won every single match in dominant form. The Lady Bulldogs will not be advancing to the state tournament, but had a great season considering the lack of experience on the team.

Girls' Lacrosse: The highlight of the week for the girls came from junior Bailey Truesdale, who scored her 100th varsity goal for the Lady Bulldogs in a 7-4 win over Coyle-Cassidy. Truesdale is the first ORR player to reach the milestone in the history of the girls' lacrosse program. In the win over Coyle-Cassidy, freshman Emily Hiller played well, recording a hat trick, while Maggie Wiggin and Chloe Riley each pitched in with one goal apiece. The Lady Bulldogs finished off their regular season with a win over out-of-conference Silver Lake. The girls received a seventh seed in the Division 2 South Tournament, and will face off against Mashpee later this week.

Below are the overall spring team records, followed by the conference records in wins, losses, and

To the Editor:

Several individuals have taken to the local media to voice their personal displeasure with the March 27th vote by the Old Rochester Regional Joint School Committee to adopt a school district calendar next year in which school will be in session on Good Friday and there will be no school the half day before Thanksgiving. The essence of their opposition is that such a school calendar infringes on their faith by having schools open on Good Friday. Determining which days should be school days or vacation days should be viewed through the lens of what will provide the highest quality education for all students in the tri-town, as should all decisions made by our elected school committees. This, of course, should go without saying, but in the event some committee members need reminding of this, the following information should be considered should the joint school committee decide to revisit this issue.

The day before Thanksgiving is inarguably one of the busiest travel days of the entire year, and quite possibly the busiest travel day occurring during the school year. According to data provided by the ORR Superintendent's office, district student attendance figures bear this out. Over the past five years, the average daily student absentee rate across the district's six schools was 4.6%, while the average absentee rate on the day before Thanksgiving was 9.4%, more than double the daily rate. In fact, among the six district schools, over the past five years the average daily absentee rate has ranged from 2.9% to 5.9%, while the absentee rate on the day before Thanksgiving has ranged from 5.8% to a whopping 17.7%. With such a high absentee rate on the day before Thanksgiving, the joint school committee was right to reconfigure the school calendar the way they did.

What has been conspicuously absent from the commentary of those opposed to the new calendar is any mention of the new calendar's impact on effective student instruction time. It is even more disappointing to read the comments of some school committee members opposed to the new calendar who equally failed to give any consideration to the new calendar's beneficial impact on student instruction time. By holding classes on Good Friday and giving students the day off on a day with historically high absenteeism, the new school calendar will result in an increase in the amount of effective instructional class time. The half-day before Thanksgiving is not the most productive day for instructional time due to the higher number of absent students as well as the various extracurricular activities that often take place that day. Switching the half-day before Thanksgiving for a full day of classes on Good Friday will net valuable additional time spent focused on the curriculum.

Despite the hyperbolic claims of some, the adoption of the new school calendar is not "an attack on Christians." On the contrary, those committee members who voted in favor of the new calendar did exactly what they were elected to do, which is to adopt school policies and procedures that will provide the best possible academic environment for all students.

With regard to the assertions that having school on Good Friday will lead to significant increases in the substitute teacher budget, fortunately we have the benefit of looking to the experience of the nearby Bourne Public School system, where school has been in session on Good Friday since 2000. According to Bourne Superintendent Steven M. Lamarche, of the approximately 300 school department staff, only one teacher and two paraprofessionals requested Good Friday off this year. There is simply no evidence to suggest that the ORR district should expect a different experience than Bourne.

Many tri-town residents moved to this area because of the high quality of the education provided by the ORR district schools. The excellent education our children receive here is due in no small part to the decisions made by our school committees, and it is reasonable to expect that those decisions are and will be made with the best interests of our children in mind. Residents also expect that our school committee members will inform themselves with all pertinent information when considering all issues that affect the quality of our children's education. The school committee's mission is to create a school system that is conducive to the full academic growth of all students. This school calendar issue should not be viewed as a religious or political issue, but rather simply an educational one.

Art Center is located at 80 Pleasant Street, Marion, MA 02738. Gallery Hours are Tuesday through Friday from 1:00 to 5:00 pm and Saturdays from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm. Meet the Artists:

Arlene K. McGonagle: Arlene has been a traditional basket maker, making functional baskets since 1981. After many years of creating utilitarian baskets, she acquired the necessary skills to experiment with new forms and shapes. She started making contemporary baskets using many non-traditional materials such as Japanese papers, wire, copper foil, pewter, brass, etc. Her new work evolved to conceptual designs that represent ideas rather than functional containers.

Arlene received her MFA in Fiber Arts from the University of Massachusetts at Dartmouth in 1998.

Presently, Arlene is continuing her work on contemporary baskets while experimenting with printmaking and encaustics in her studio located in the Cutler Mills, Warren, RI.

Of her recent work, Arlene says: "'Scripted Baskets' has been a new series of work that I have produced in the last five years. My baskets combine fiber structures interwoven with hand-made paper portraying words transformed from a variety of sources." Some of her pieces portray phrases from Emily Dickinson's poetry. Some employ words from other authors. Others contain excerpts from her personal journals, written on the basket interior due to the personal nature of the portrayed thoughts. The material used to sculpt each basket conforms to the spirit of the writings that will be incorporated into the woven form as the work goes forward. Rice or kozo paper is often used for the inner scripted segments, while hand-made specialty paper usually forms the outer surfaces.

Carol Strause FitzSimonds: Printmaker, book artist, instructor and a former gallery curator, for the past three decades Carol has exhibited her work at colleges, museums, and galleries across the United States and abroad. Married to her college sweetheart – a career Naval officer – and the proud mother of one son, the family moved constantly until her husband retired from active duty in 2001. Settled now in Portsmouth, Rhode Island, Carol teaches printmaking at the Providence Art Club. Her art can be found in numerous private and public

Carol feels that being a printmaker is a great privilege. What drew her to printmaking and still captivates her spirit is the versatility of each print process, the textural qualities of the printed surface, and the potential for multiple permutations. In her artist's statement, she says: "Printmaking techniques create effects and images not possible in any other art form. Under the heading 'printmaking' there are literally dozens of established processes to create an artist's vision as a single or multiple image with new techniques emerging constantly to push the boundaries of what is termed an 'original' fine art print. Add to printmaking the re-emergence of the book as 'fine art' and there is even more potential for innovation in concept and presentation. 'Touch' is now linked to 'look and see' as my prints move off the wall to become tactile sculpture. Each print becomes part of a larger whole, tied together by structure and/or text."

Her work has received numerous awards in competitions across the country and has been featured in the Artists' Magazine, the Journal of the Print World, and 100 Artists of New England. Carol is a juried member

Susan Patterson: Susan has been exhibiting work in and around New England for 17 years. Her mediums are pencil, charcoal, watercolor, oil, and printmaking. Her passion for art began in Canada under the tutelage of her mother, who was a professional artist. Following a career move to the United States in 1973, painting occupied her spare time. In 1999, she joined a group of women artists in Massachusetts, which led to her first successful gallery exhibition in Boston. Her work revolves around the figure and the New England seascape and reflects her travels in Maine, Yosemite National Park in California, Arizona, and Europe. This is her second time as an exhibitor at the Marion Art Center.

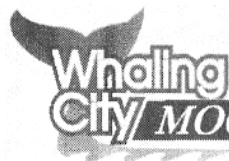

Susan's passion for art revolves around the intellectual approach for each work. She enjoys the process, taking it to different levels using a variety of mediums. During the past five years, printmaking has added new perspective to her approach and enabled her to expand and improve her drawing and observation skills.

In 1999, she became a founding board member of the Art League of Rhode Island. Susan is an artist member of the Providence Art Club, the Rhode Island Watercolor Society and the Art League of Rhode Island. She obtained her certificate program in Painting and Drawing from the

MOVIE REVIEW

Greatest Hits

By Rob Gonsalves

Gore Vidal: The United States of Amnesia.* Directed by Nicholas Wrathall. Available on demand and in selected theaters. Running time: 89 minutes. No MPAA rating.

It's a little unnerving to see a sentimental portrait of a rigorously unsentimental man. Gore Vidal: The United States of Amnesia profiles the writer and historian in his painful autumn years, shuffling the new footage with archival clips of Vidal from the days when he was all but inescapable on TV, the literary equivalent of Carl Sagan (and equally parodiable). We see the Vidal of the '60s and '70s in varying degrees of slimness or paunch, intellectually limber and grinning when he sniffs rhetorical blood in the water, but then we always return to the octogenarian version, sodden with wrinkles and disappointment. He's as sharp as ever, but the grin is gone. For one thing, nobody's left to cross swords with him; his media adversaries have fallen one by one. William F. Buckley, Norman Mailer, even the relative whippersnapper Christopher Hitchens — all gone. Vidal outlived his enemies and his friends, finally excusing himself from the room in 2012.

This documentary, which numbers Vidal's nephew Burr Steers among its producers, tries gamely to fit an 86-year life into an 89-minute film. What we get is unavoidably Gore's Greatest Hits. The Vidal/Buckley verbal shoot-out is here; Norman Mailer snarling at Vidal (and everyone else, including the studio audience) on The Dick Cavett Show gets a short clip; Vidal clowning Jerry Brown while running against him for the California U.S. Senate seat is probably the comic highlight. Brown sits there, scowling and furious, while Vidal more or less makes the very notion of Jerry Brown seem absurd. (It made me want to seek out Gary Conklin's documentary on this episode in Vidal's life, Gore Vidal: The Man Who Said No.) Essentially, the movie is a feature-length A&E Biography, from back when A&E still aired such things and not, say, Duck Dynasty.

Unadventurously directed by Nicholas Wrathall, the movie opens with Vidal standing at his own tomb — shared with longtime partner Howard Austen — and reaches a climax of sorts when, after Austen's death, Vidal moves out of the Italian villa they also shared. Having lost his slice of paradise, Vidal seems to long for the grave. What does Wrathall have to say about any of this? Nothing. The film is carelessly structured; it began as a couple of filmed interviews and then grew into a feature. It hasn't been shaped to tell any particular story. It seems to exist only because Wrathall had the footage. It certainly isn't as radical as Vidal's own words often were and are. I suppose Wrathall might say that his film will lead people to Vidal's writing, though Vidal himself might bitterly counter that (a) nobody watches documentaries and (b) even if they did, nobody reads books either.

That was why Vidal valued his TV appearances: he knew he could get some splinter of his ideas across to a much bigger audience than would read his essays or even his historical novels. Of course, that was back when writers still showed up on TV. Vidal was often called cynical, but, having grown up around politics, he was simply a realist who knew how politics work. He was also a class traitor, a rich white man who was calling out income inequity decades before Occupy Wall Street. The film trots out some loyal talking heads to testify on Vidal's behalf, including the fallen angel Hitchens, whom Vidal excommunicated when Hitchens supported the Iraq War. By the time Hitchens sat for Wrathall's camera, he was gaunt and bald from chemotherapy, and delicate sad-bastard piano music plays as Hitchens laments that he hasn't seen Vidal in years. Soon he would be dead, presumably never having gotten absolution.

The Hitchens anecdote sketches Vidal as a cold cod, a grinch whose heart was four sizes too small. The movie runs some standard diagnostics on him: he hated his mother and lost his one true love, athlete Jimmie Trimble, at age 19 in World War II. The price of being an intellectual titan, the movie seems to reassure us, is going about a long, loveless life with a Trimble-sized hole in it. (Trimble, I guess, is Vidal's Rosebud.) Wrathall approaches Vidal humbly, hat in hand, his head as empty as his hat. He doesn't quite know what to make of Vidal; the man was simply bigger and more complex than one trial-size documentary can capture. It is nice to see vintage clips of Vidal the verbal samurai, but we have YouTube for that. The danger with this sort of movie is that our affection for the man will rub off onto the film. But Vidal himself, if he were sizing up this film, would have known how to separate one from the other, and would have been the first to say so.

TriTOWN HAPPENINGS

Keeping with an 80 year-old tradition, people with their home made boats raced toward the finish line during the annual Rochester Memorial Day Boat Race. Beginning at Grandma Hartley's Reservoir on Snipatuit Road, boaters paddled the almost 12-mile race route to Herring Weir at River Road in Mattapoisett. There were 65 teams in all. victims of domestic and sexual violence at The Women's Center.

"This tournament raises much needed funds for local domestic violence, rape crisis and child trauma services," said Pamela MacLeod-Lima, Executive Director of TWC. "Shelter for families escaping violence, counseling, medical and legal advocacy, child trauma services and community outreach and violence prevention programs are just some of the services offered at TWC. In these trying economic times, stress levels are at their highest. With a service area encompassing 14 cities and towns throughout the Southcoast region, demand for our services continues to rise while budgets cuts continue at all levels of government, community organizations and private funders."

There is still room for individuals and businesses to sponsor a golf foursome or showcase their business as an event sponsor or on a Tee Sign ($100). Many thanks to our event sponsors: Bristol County Savings Bank (Golf Shirt Sponsor); Bearing Specialties (Hole in One sponsor); DTZ- a UGL company (Cart Sponsor); and Subway on Brayton Avenue, Fall River (Lunch Sponsor). Sponsorship opportunities are still open for a Dinner Sponsor, which includes a Tee Sign, golf foursome, and special recognition at the Awards Dinner. Golf fees include box lunch, golf cart, golf shirt and gift bag, and the Awards Dinner. There will also be a Silent Auction and Raffle with several great get-a-ways and sports memorabilia.

When ORR High School students Ian Hibbert and Jeremy Bare walked out onto the stage in longhaired wigs and skirts, the crowd burst into laughter. Twenty-one students from English teacher Kathleen Brunelle's Theater class performed Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing on May 22. The performance had a different spin on the original play, the setting being post-World War II, with accompanying music by the Andrews Sisters that, along with period clothing and costumes, brought the play to life. "Support from the community is vital for TWC to continue to provide free and confidential services to victims of abuse, violence and trauma. Sponsoring a golf team ensures that local victims of domestic violence and sexual assault have access to the healing and life-saving services they need. It's a fun day for a great cause."

Marion Resident to Play at New Bedford JazzFest

Marion resident, Marcus Monteiro, will be performing at New Bedford JazzFest 2014 on Saturday, June 14 with his quartet, the MonteiroBots. This dynamic young saxophonist began studying his instrument in the fifth grade when his parents found an old saxophone at a yard sale. Although he had expressed a desire to study the piano, 10-year old Marcus was immediately fascinated by the mechanics of his new instrument before he even played a note. Once he did, he was hooked.

Marcus began formal, private study with Dennis Nobrega, who taught him the fundamentals of reading music and saxophone technique. During his junior year in high school, Marcus started lessons with local music icon, the late Rick Britto. He studied with him throughout his years at UMass Dartmouth and posted this tribute to him on his Facebook page when Rick passed away. It said in part, "He was an endless source of inspiration from his work ethic to his selfless devotion to his students. If it was not for him, I would never have been introduced to

Scores of Mattapoissett residents gathered in front of the Mattapoissett Free Library the drizzly afternoon of May 26 to pay homage to veteran Americans who lost their lives. Onlookers filled the lawn and spilled out into the street to watch the Memorial Day ceremony with special guest speaker Navy Reserve Commander Paul J. Brawley who served more than 22 years of active duty and reserve service. After the ceremony, participants paraded through the town to the town wharf. Photos By Jean Perry composition, modern saxophone technique, jazz history, the avant-garde, and most importantly teaching itself."

At UMass Dartmouth, Marcus also studied with Santi DeBriano, who took him to play at the Panama Jazz Festival in 2006; John Harrison III, who will also be playing at the New Bedford JazzFest; and Royal Hartigan, who introduced him to the music of India and Africa.

Marcus gained performing experience at jam sessions at the Cape Verdean Vets Hall in New Bedford where he met Rick Britto. This inspired him to experiment with jazz and improvisation. His interaction with other students playing there was a turning point for his life-long interest in music. Saxophonist Maceo Parker was one of his first musical influences. Soon Marcus was copying his solos and funkier music which made him deal with syncopation and complex rhythms.

Rochester Republican Town Committee

The Rochester Republican Town Committee will hold its next meeting on Saturday, June 7 at 9:30 am at the East Freetown Crossroads Plaza 2nd floor. The public is welcome.

Mattapoissett Road Race: What Does it Take?

The Mattapoissett Road Race is a huge undertaking whose success depends on the support of so many people. In addition to volunteers, the Road Race Committee, and the runners it is essential to have financial support from numerous sources. Ordering and printing over 1,000 shirts does not happen in a vacuum along with ordering supplies and race equipment. Fortunately, there are individuals and businesses that understand what a terrific event this race is and are willing to fund it. The Committee would be unable to run such an organized race and to provide so many substantial scholarships without this support.

The Road Race Committee wishes to take the opportunity to thank the following sponsors: Amaral's/State Fruit; Barley Family Healthcare & Rehab PC; Bartlett Gardens; Bay Club; Bill Strauss Committee; Body in Balance; Colonial Shutterworks; DG Service Co. Inc.; Dr. David Chesney; Dr. William Muldoon;

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) An unexpected development could change the Arian's perspective on a potential investment. Keep an open mind. Ignore the double talk and act only on the facts.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A surge of support helps you keep your long-standing commitment to colleagues who rely on you for guidance. Ignore any attempts to get you to ease up on your efforts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Family continues to be the dominant factor, but career matters also take on new importance. You might even be able to combine elements of the two in some surprising, productive way.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A realistic view of a workplace or personal situation helps you deal with it more constructively once you know where the truth lies. Reserve the weekend for someone special.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) As much as you Leos or Leonas might be intrigued by the "sunny" prospects touted for a potential investment, be careful that you don't allow the glare to blind you to its essential details.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A friend's problem brings out the Virgo's nurturing nature in full force. However, don't go it alone. Allow others to pitch in and help share the responsibilities you've assumed.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A business decision might need to be put off until a colleague's personal matter is resolved. Use this time to work on another business matter that you've been anxious to get to.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Relationships (personal or professional) might appear to be stalled because of details that keep cropping up and that need tending to. Be patient. A path begins to clear soon.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A promotion could cause resentment among envious colleagues. But others recognize how hard you worked to earn it, and will be there to support you if you need them.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Handling a delicate personal matter needs both your wisdom and your warmth. Expect some setbacks, but stay with it. The outcome will more than justify your efforts.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Resist the temptation to cut corners just because time is short. Best to move ahead step by step so you don't overlook anything that might later create time-wasting complications.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Use the good will you recently earned with that well-received project to pitch your ideas for a new project. Expect some tough competition, though, from an unlikely source.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your love of family extends beyond your personal life to include others to whom you generously extend your care and affection.

Mattapoisett Land Trust Grants

The Mattapoisett Land Trust is pleased to announce that it has recently received word of two foundation grants to be used for the acquisition of the 22-acre Downey property on Mattapoisett Neck Road. The grants from the Sheehan Family Foundation and the Fields Pond Foundation of $5,000 and $10,000 respectively will help significantly in meeting the funding needs in order to accomplish the closing of the purchase in June. Both foundations have contributed to the MLT's land acquisition efforts in the past.

The Sheehan Family Foundation of Kingston, Massachusetts, has as its mission "to protect the environment and enhance the quality of education, with a focus on projects in eastern Massachusetts." This nicely complements the Land Trust's own mission of "preserving land in order to enrich the quality of life for present and future generations of Mattapoisett residents and visitors."

The Fields Pond Foundation of Waltham, Massachusetts, has a similar environmental mission: "to provide financial assistance to nature and land conservation organizations that are community-based and that serve to increase environmental awareness by involving local residents in conservation issues." ### SHS and ETL Lecture Presentation

On Friday, June 13 at 7:00 pm, the public is invited to the Marion Music Hall, as historian Gary Sousa presents The Civil Rights Act – Fifty Years Later. In 1964, Congress passed Public Law 88-352 (78 Stat. 241), the groundbreaking legislation commonly known as the Civil Rights Act. The Act forbids discrimination on the basis of sex as well as race in hiring, promoting, and firing, making it unlawful for an employer to “fail or refuse to hire or to discharge any individual, or otherwise to discriminate against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions or privileges or employment, because of such individual’s race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.” Title VII of the Act created the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) to implement the law.

Mr. Sousa, a history instructor at Tabor Academy since 2005, will examine the struggle for racial and gender equality in the United States, and the ways in which the 1964 legislation has both succeeded and failed in addressing that struggle. Sousa holds a B.A. from Brown University and an M.A.L.S. from Wesleyan University. In addition to teaching, coaching and serving as a dorm parent, he advises Tabor’s Model U.N. program.

Co-sponsored by the Sippican Historical Society and the Elizabeth Taber Library, Mr. Sousa’s lecture is offered free to the public, with no registration required. Parking is available across from the Marion Music Hall at Island Wharf Park. For more information, please call the SHS at 509-748-1116.

Free Fairhaven Walking Tours

The Fairhaven Office of Tourism's free public walking tours will begin during the first week in June and will continue weekly through the end of September.

On Tuesday and Thursday mornings, starting June 3, Henry H. Rogers Walking Tours will start at 10:00 am outside the Town Hall at 40 Center Street. The tour highlights the life of the town's benefactor, Henry H. Rogers, a top executive with the Standard Oil Co., who built a number of magnificent European-style public buildings in the center of town between 1885 and 1906. The tour will include visits inside the Millicent Library and the Town Hall. Tourism Director Christopher Richard guides the walk. It is held weather permitting. (There will be no tours on July 22 and 24.)

On Friday mornings at 10:00 am, beginning June 6, the Fort Phoenix Minuteman Presentation will be held near the cannons at the historical fort at the south end of Fort Street. A guide dressed in period clothing from the Revolutionary War will outline the history of the fort from 1775 through the Civil War. Also included in the presentation are a discussion of 18th-century medicine and dentistry and a demonstration of loading a firing a flintlock rifle. The presentation lasts about 75 minutes and is held weather permitting. There is free parking at Fort Phoenix and a handicap accessible walkway leads from the parking lot to the fort. (There will be no presentation on July 25.) On July 4, an Independence Day ceremony

ORR Summer Conditioning Program

The summer conditioning program will once again be held at Old Rochester.

There will be one conditioning program for grades 7-12, Monday - Thursday, 5:30 - 7:00 pm, June 23 - August 14. The cost is $100; checks made out to Mattapoisett Recreation. Open to both boys and girls. It is a general conditioning program geared towards getting athletes ready for their fall sport and concentrates on agility, mobility, strength, speed and overall conditioning. Cross-country coaches recommend their athletes come two days a week in addition to doing your base summer running at home.

We will also be doing the same program for boys and girls entering grades 3-6, Monday - Thursday, 4:30 - 5:30 pm, June 23 - August 14. Cost is $75. Checks made out to Mattapoisett Recreation.

MNHM Summer Programs

Come and enjoy the summer in Marion with the Marion Natural History Museum's Summer Programs.

Life along the Shore: During this program, we will be visiting the shoreline and exploring the plants and animals that live in our area's many coastal habitats. With the use of games, journals, introductory science techniques and hands-on activities, this will be a wonderful first look at life in our coastal environment. For students entering grades 1 and 2.

Coastal Explorations I & II: The Coastal Explorations I program will feature explorations of our rocky intertidal shoreline, salt marshes, estuaries as well as freshwater riverbanks, swamps, ponds and bogs. We will look at the birds, amphibians, fish and invertebrates that make these areas so special. For students entering grades 3 and 4.

During our Coastal Explorations II program, we will further enjoy the unique habitats Marion has to offer, including several field trips to expand our knowledge of our Coastal and Freshwater ecosystems. For students entering grades 5-7.

Dates and time for all sessions are:

Session I: July 7 - July 18, 2014

Session II: August 4 - August 15, 2014

Sessions will be held from 9:00 am - noon, Monday - Friday

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes!

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark

In the May 22, 2014 issue the Aardvark was on page 38!
